To whomsoever it may concern

This document is to certify that Mr. Anicet Robert Dutta has completed his internship as an HR- Intern at Quest Business Solution, Jamshedpur from 31st October 2022 to 3rd January 2023.

He has worked on the live project titled Recruitment of Non-IT Resources- Finance. The aim of this project was to analyze client requirements, accordingly identify talents across PAN India and source suitable profiles with the manager. As a part of the project, he was responsible for designing and implementing the overall recruiting strategy, sourcing and attracting candidates by using job portals, databases, social media etc., conducting interviews and filtering candidates for the open positions.

During the internship, Anicet demonstrated a keen interest and enthusiasm to learn new skills. His performance exceeded our expectations, and his dedication to their roles and responsibilities was commendable. All of the tasks were completed on time and to the best of his abilities.

We wish him all the best for his career.

Thank You!

Ref No. SEMS/LOR/0088

Date: 30th December 2022

Dear Aryan Singh,

We are writing this letter to let you know about the fantastic job that you had done for the company. You had been excellent in completing your tasks and transitioning work into routine seamlessly. Our company has seen an increase in digital branding in the last quarter with a lot of help from interns like you, whose hard work remains commendable.

That being said, please know that your hard work is acknowledged and greatly appreciated. Truly, you were an asset to our company during internship from 10/1/2022 to 12/15/2022.

Thank you and keep up the good work!

Dear Nidhi Sahu,

We are writing this letter to let you know about the fantastic job that you had done for the company. You had been excellent in completing your tasks and transitioning work into routine seamlessly. Our company has seen an increase in digital branding in the last quarter with a lot of help from interns like you, whose hard work remains commendable.

That being said, please know that your hard work is acknowledged and greatly appreciated. Truly, you were an asset to our company during internship from 10/1/2022 to 12/15/2022.

Thank you and keep up the good work!

TOPIC: Visit to High-tech Nursery unit established under NABARD

Date of Visit: 5/01/2023

Location: Patamda, Jharkhand

[Signature]
Head
Department of Agriculture
Netaji Subhas University

Outcome of Visit:

Introduction

On 5/01/2023, the students Agriculture Department visited the high-tech nursery unit established by NABARD (National Bank for Agriculture and Rural Development) unit at Patamda, Jharkhand as part of their academic curriculum. The objective of the visit was to understand the role of NABARD in agricultural financing, rural development, and various initiatives aimed at empowering farmers and agripreneurs and also to provide students with practical exposure to advanced nursery management practices and modern technologies employed in plant propagation.

Objectives of the Visit The visit aimed to provide students with practical exposure to:

- The functioning of NABARD and its impact on agricultural and rural development.
- Various credit and subsidy schemes for farmers.
- The role of NABARD in promoting sustainable agricultural practices.
- Opportunities for agripreneurship and rural credit facilities.
- To understand the various techniques used in high-tech nursery management.
- To gain practical knowledge of propagation methods, including seed propagation, vegetative propagation, and tissue culture.
- To observe the use of modern technologies like mist chambers, shade nets, polyhouses, and automated irrigation systems.
- To learn about pest and disease management in nursery units.
- To understand the economic aspects of running a high-tech nursery.

Description of the Visit

The visit commenced with an introductory session conducted by the head owner of the nursery unit, who provided an overview of the nursery's establishment, objectives, and operations. The students were then guided through various sections of the nursery, including:

1. Seed Propagation Unit: Demonstration of germination techniques, seedbed preparation, and sowing practices.
2. Vegetative Propagation Unit: Observation of methods such as grafting, budding, cutting, and layering.

3. Tissue Culture Laboratory: Introduction to micropropagation techniques and protocols for producing disease-free planting materials.
4. Controlled Environment Structures: Explanation of the role of polyhouses, shade nets, and mist chambers in enhancing plant growth and development.
5. Irrigation and Fertigation Systems: Overview of automated drip and sprinkler irrigation systems integrated with fertigation units.
6. Pest and Disease Management: Techniques employed for monitoring, prevention, and control of pests and diseases in nursery plants.

Observations and Learnings Upon arrival, the students were welcomed by NABARD officials who provided an insightful presentation on the bank's objectives and working structure. And also gave an insight into the various informations on high tech nursery under the NABARD unit.

Key aspects covered during the visit included:

1. Agricultural Financing: The students learned about the various financial assistance programs available for farmers, including short-term and long-term loans, microfinance initiatives, and cooperative banking.
2. Rural Development Initiatives: NABARD officials explained different schemes such as the Rural Infrastructure Development Fund (RIDF) and SHG (Self-Help Group) linkage programs aimed at empowering small-scale farmers and rural entrepreneurs.
3. Sustainable Agriculture Practices: The importance of organic farming, climate-resilient agriculture, and watershed development programs supported by NABARD was discussed in detail.
4. Entrepreneurship and Innovation: The visit provided students with knowledge about NABARD's role in promoting agribusiness startups, skill development programs, and financial literacy initiatives for rural youth.
5. Modern propagation techniques were effectively demonstrated:
 1. Tissue Culture (Micropropagation):
 - In vitro techniques for producing disease-free, genetically uniform plantlets under sterile conditions.

Department of Agriculture
Netaji Subhas University

- Commonly used for mass propagation of horticultural crops, ornamentals, and medicinal plants.

2. Aeroponics and Hydroponics:

- Soilless cultivation systems providing controlled nutrient supply, enhancing growth rates and efficiency.
- Useful for rapid propagation and production of high-quality planting materials.

3. Grafting Robots:

- Automated machines performing precise grafting operations, improving efficiency and success rates.
- Commonly applied in the production of fruit crops and vegetables.

4. Mist Propagation Chambers:

- Structures providing optimal humidity and temperature control for rooting of cuttings and seed germination.
- Ensures high success rates in vegetative propagation.

5. Protray Nurseries:

- Specialized trays used for raising seedlings, allowing uniform growth and easy transplanting.
- Facilitates mechanization and improved handling of seedlings.

6. Clonal Propagation:

- Mass production of superior clones through cutting, layering, and micropropagation.
- Ensures uniformity and quality in planting material.

6. High levels of automation were observed, particularly in irrigation and environmental control.

1. Drip Irrigation

- Definition: A system where water is delivered directly to the root zone of plants through a network of pipes, tubes, and emitters.
- Advantages: High water-use efficiency, reduced weed growth, precise nutrient application.
- Applications: Horticultural crops, orchards, row crops, and high-value crops.

2. Sprinkler Irrigation

- Definition: Water is distributed through a system of pipes and sprayed over crops using sprinklers, simulating natural rainfall.

Head

- Advantages: Uniform water distribution, suitable for various soil types, prevents soil erosion.
- Applications: Cereals, vegetables, lawns, and landscapes.

3. Center Pivot Irrigation

- Definition: A rotating sprinkler system that moves around a pivot, irrigating circular areas of crops.
- Advantages: High efficiency, less labor-intensive, suitable for large-scale farming.
- Applications: Cereals, fodder crops, vegetables, and forage.

7. Implementation of Integrated Pest Management (IPM) practices was evident.

8. Efficient space utilization within the nursery was noted.

Conclusion: The visit to the NABARD unit was an enriching experience for the B.Sc. Agriculture students. It provided them with valuable insights into the role of financial institutions in agricultural growth and rural development. The visit also highlighted the various opportunities available for young agripreneurs and the importance of financial planning in farming practices. It also provided the students with valuable practical exposure to modern nursery management techniques, contributing significantly to their theoretical knowledge. The students appreciated the opportunity to witness cutting-edge technologies in action, which will undoubtedly aid them in their future agricultural practices.

Recommendations:

- Organizing more such visits to financial and agricultural institutions for better practical exposure.
- Encouraging students to participate in NABARD-led projects and schemes.
- Conducting workshops on financial literacy and agripreneurship for students.
- Encouragement of students to undertake internships or research projects in high-tech nursery management.

The visit successfully bridged the gap between theoretical learning and practical applications, inspiring students to explore careers in agricultural finance and rural development.

TOPIC: IFS (Integrated Farming System) model visit

Date of Visit: 9/11/2022

Location: Chhota Gogra Village, Jamshedpur

Outcome of Visit:

Introduction:

On 9/11/2025, the B.Sc. Agriculture students visited an Integrated Farming System (IFS) model at Chhota Gogra Village, Jamshedpur as part of their academic curriculum. The objective of the visit was to understand the concept of integrated farming, its components, and its role in enhancing agricultural sustainability, productivity, and income diversification.

Department of Agriculture
Netaji Subhas University

IFS MODEL ??

Integrated Farming System (IFS) Model

The Integrated Farming System (IFS) is a sustainable agricultural practice that combines various farming components like crops, livestock, fisheries, agroforestry, and poultry into a single cohesive unit. This model aims to optimize resource utilization, enhance productivity, improve economic viability, and maintain ecological balance.

Key Features of IFS Model:

1. Diversification: Combining crop production with livestock, poultry, fishery, beekeeping, and agroforestry to minimize risks and enhance income.
2. Resource Recycling: Efficient use of farm residues and by-products. For example, animal manure is used as fertilizer, while crop residues can be used as animal feed.
3. Sustainability: Enhances soil fertility, reduces dependency on external inputs, and promotes organic farming.
4. Income & Employment Generation: Ensures year-round income and employment for small and marginal farmers.
5. Resilience: Increases the resilience of the farming system against climate change and market fluctuations.
6. Nutritional Security: Provides diversified food products, improving household nutrition.

Components of IFS Model:

1. Crop Production: Primary activity involving cereals, pulses, vegetables, fruits, etc.
2. Livestock Rearing: Dairy farming, poultry, goat farming, piggery, etc.
3. Fisheries: Aquaculture and integrated fish farming systems.
4. Agroforestry: Growing trees along with crops for additional income and soil conservation.
5. Apiculture: Beekeeping for honey production and pollination.
6. Mushroom Cultivation: Utilizing crop residues for growing mushrooms.

7. Biogas Production: Using animal waste for energy generation.

Benefits of IFS Model:

- Enhanced resource-use efficiency.
- Improved farm profitability and sustainability.
- Effective waste management through recycling.
- Reduced risk of crop failure by diversification.
- Increased employment opportunities.

Objectives of the Visit: The primary goals of the visit were:

- To learn about the different components of the IFS model.
- To understand the interdependence of various farming practices.
- To analyze the economic and environmental benefits of integrated farming.
- To explore opportunities for small and marginal farmers to maximize income and resource use efficiency.

Observations: During the visit, students were guided by farm experts and practitioners who explained the different components of the IFS model. Key highlights of the visit included:

1. Crop-Livestock Integration: The farm demonstrated how crop residues are used as feed for livestock, and in return, animal waste is utilized as organic manure, reducing dependence on chemical fertilizers.
2. Agroforestry and Horticulture: The inclusion of fruit trees, timber trees, and vegetable cultivation helped in enhancing biodiversity and providing additional income sources.
3. Aquaculture and Poultry Farming: The integration of fish farming with poultry and duck rearing showed how these components complement each other in resource utilization and income generation.
4. Composting and Vermiculture: Organic waste from different farming components was efficiently recycled into compost and vermicompost, promoting sustainable soil health management.

Head

Department of Agriculture
Netaji Subhas University

5. Water Management: Efficient irrigation systems such as drip irrigation, rainwater harvesting, and pond-based farming were observed, showcasing sustainable water usage in integrated farming.

Learning Outcomes:

1. Understanding of Integrated Farming Principles:
 - Gaining knowledge about the fundamental principles of combining various agricultural enterprises (crops, livestock, fishery, poultry, agroforestry) into a unified system.
2. Resource Recycling Techniques:
 - Learning how by-products from one enterprise can be utilized as inputs for another (e.g., using animal manure for crop fertilization, crop residues for livestock feed).
3. Sustainable Farming Practices:
 - Observing eco-friendly practices that enhance soil health, reduce chemical use, and promote biodiversity.
4. Efficient Land Use Management:
 - Understanding how to optimize available land for multiple enterprises, improving productivity per unit area.
5. Economic Viability and Profit Maximization:
 - Studying how diversified income sources reduce financial risks and improve profitability.
6. Pest and Disease Management:
 - Learning integrated pest and disease control methods that are effective and environmentally sustainable.
7. Nutrient Management:
 - Understanding the use of organic manure, composting, and efficient nutrient recycling methods.

8. Water Management Techniques:

- Observing efficient water-use practices such as rainwater harvesting, drip irrigation, and integrated aquaculture systems.

9. Climate Resilience:

- Learning how integrated systems can provide stability against climate change impacts by diversifying farm activities.

10. Practical Exposure to Modern Technologies:

- Observing technologies like biogas plants, vermicomposting units, and automated irrigation systems.

11. Skill Development:

- Acquiring practical skills in setting up and managing different components of an IFS model.

12. Networking and Knowledge Sharing:

- Interacting with experts and experienced farmers to gain insights into real-world challenges and solutions.

Conclusion The visit to the IFS model was an insightful and practical learning experience for the students. It provided an understanding of sustainable agricultural practices and their economic and environmental benefits. The integration of different farm components demonstrated how farmers could achieve self-sufficiency, reduce input costs, and enhance productivity.

Recommendations

- Encouraging farmers to adopt the IFS model for better sustainability and profitability.
- Conducting workshops and training sessions on integrated farming techniques.
- Organizing similar field visits for practical exposure to diversified farming systems.

The visit successfully bridged the gap between theoretical knowledge and practical implementation, inspiring students to explore innovative and sustainable farming practices.
