| Objective: The primary objective of this training program was to create awareness among villagers about environmental protection and conservation.                                                                                                                                                                                           |               |
| Key topics covered included: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Sustainable farming practices using organic fertilizers</li><li>• Water conservation methods such as rainwater harvesting</li><li>• Waste segregation and composting techniques</li><li>• Reducing the use of plastic and promoting eco-friendly alternatives</li></ul> |               |
| Outcome: The Training Program on Environmental Protection for Villagers was successfully conducted with active participation and enthusiasm. The initiative promoted environmental awareness at the grassroots level and encouraged villagers to adopt sustainable practices for a greener and healthier environment.                        |               |
